

Study on Correlations of Stretchability and Sampling Position of Goatskin and Sheepskin Garment Leather

Shaolan Ding^{1}, Di Tian¹, Ligu Zhao²*

¹College of Resources and Environment, Shaanxi University of Science & Technology, Xi'an 710021, Shaanxi, P. R. China

²Committee for Leather Standardization of China, Beijing 100016, P. R. China

*Corresponding author, E-mail: lingling7964@yahoo.com.cn

Abstract: In this paper, the tensile strength and extensibility of samples from different positions and directions of goatskin and sheepskin garment leather were tested and the objective of this paper was to provide scientific data for standardization and rational use of leather for leather industries. It also provided the guidance for adjustments and regulations on tannery technology.

Key Words: goatskin and sheepskin garment leather; tensile strength; extensibility